

Ebonie is a dynamic entrepreneur and celebrity cake designer, with a love for sunflowers, 90s R&B, and business growth strategies. She's been an entrepreneur since her early days, selling candy, custom bracelets, and CD's. Over the past eight years, Ebonie has grown her business into a 5-star award-winning luxury wedding cake bakery, with features on Food Network, TLC's Four Weddings, ASBN network, iHeart Radio, and the Jim Beach radio show. She has also been published in numerous industry magazines.

Her success has led to a speaking career and social presence as a business coach and strategist, where she helps startups and small businesses grow their revenue through financial literacy and sales training. Ebonie is now on a mission to empower new cake designers to build profitable businesses from their home kitchens.

Growing up in a bakery, Ebonie developed a love for baking, but she didn't want to follow in her mother's footsteps. She pursued higher education and corporate America. However, after years of working in the corporate world, Ebonie realized that she needed to pursue her passion for baking and entrepreneurship. She gave up her steady income and company benefits to start her entrepreneurial journey, and it paid off.

As the owner of Atlanta's premier wedding cake bakery, Ebonie is known for her luxurious cake designs and was awarded DeKalb County's Small Business of the Year Award for her professional accomplishments and community activism among small businesses in the metro Atlanta region. She has been featured on Food Network, Food Network Canada, TLC, Newsy, Washington Post, Atlanta Style Weddings, and many more. Ebonie is an inspiration to anyone looking to pursue their passion and turn it into a successful business.
